

October 2012 Promotion

Make sure you book a table at the Christmas 70's Party Night. It is great value at €20 for a Christmas buffet and dance. Presenters interested in posting information about their shows on the Dundalk FM facebook page should contact Padraig Quigley.

AGM 2012

I would like to welcome new members to the Board – Eamon O'Reilly, Sean Callaghan and Niall MacCárthaigh and Ciarán Hughes as the Evening Duty Manager. Ciarán is providing sound desk training for members in the main studio each Thursday from 7pm to 8pm. No need to book – just call in.

Programming

We have a new documentary hour and a repeat of Fadó Fadó on Sunday. Pairic Duffy has started his series of music shows on Wednesday evenings at 7pm. Recent outside broadcasts were from the Kavanagh Centre, Men's Sheds in Seatown and the launch of Positive Ageing Week from the Market Square. Eileen Corcoran presented 'Bookends' from An Táin Theatre for National Poetry Day on October 4th (available on podcast). Expect to hear new shows from John Sisk and Mario MacBlain from the DKIT, Colin McKeown and Karl Moore and also from Kevin Mackin and David Jones.

Documentary Making

The 20-part Irish language and music series 'Ruaille Buaille' was broadcast in October and is now available via podcast. This was a rewarding project and thanks to Helena Mullins, Hugh McKitterick and Niall Sloan. Dundalk FM Beo is the facebook page – and how about speaking Irish on Mondays – watch this space! There is a new Programme Ideas Exchange notice board is at the reception area for your radio ideas.

Padraig Quigley is producing a two part radio drama called 'The Golden Gates' in conjunction with the Dundalk Simon Community. Joe Duffy's four part programme – The Life and Times of Cú Chulainn will begin production in November.
